Outings, Other Holiday Events Are Scheduled

City To Pause For Memorial Day Parade; Activities Varied

An assortment of activities shares the spotlight around Salem and nearby communities over the long holiday weekend as parks, lakes and clubs throughout the state open officially another season Memorial Day. The weatherman promises to cooperate.

For many persons, it will be a weekend of working around the house or playing host to visiting friends and relatives.

The city will pause tomorrow to honor its war dead with appropriate services at Hope and Grandview cemeteries. A downtown parade is scheduled for 10 a.m.

For many persons later it will be a journey to some park or sports event. Some factories are closed for the three-day weekend. Centennial Park will offer public picnicking and tennis facilities for those who would rather not venture very far. A fireworks display is set in observance of Memorial Day at the Salem Drive-In Theater Friday evening.

The Salem Golf Club will inaugurate the 1952 golf season with a flag tournament and blind bogey at the club Friday morning. An orchestra from Cleveland will play at their annual Memorial Day dance, to be held at 10 p.m. Saturday at the club.

Two polo games, opening the local season, are on tap for local followers of the ponies. The Salem Club entertains Columbus Harbor Hills Friday afternoon at 3 on the Ellsworth Road field and again on Sunday afternoon at the same time.

Picnicking, tennis and swimming are offered members at the Salem Country Club and Seaview Lake. Westville and Guilford lakes will also give area residents an opportunity to try out their swimming talents and do a little boating and fishing.

Duyn Eden Lake is now open for swimming, picnicking and boating.

The swimming pool at Firestone Park, Columbiana, opens at 1 p.m. Friday. Picnicking facilities will be available, and a baseball doubleheader between Columbiana and East Palestine will start at 1:30 at the park.

The climax to four days of a Homecoming celebration will be staged in Leetonia Saturday evening. A pet parade is scheduled for Saturday afternoon, and a concert by the Leetonia High School band is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Auto races at the Canfield Speedway will start at 2:30 p.m. on Memorial Day.

Reds Drop Threat Of Korea Offensive

MUNSAN, Korea, Friday, May 30 (AP)—Communist truce negotiations Thursday abruptly dropped their threat of an offensive in Korea but kept up a drumfire of charges that the Allies "massacred" prisoners.

Despite the lack of progress, Allied truce delegates agreed to return to Panmunjom at 11 a. m. today (9 p. m. Thursday, EST). For an hour and five minutes the deadlocked delegates traded words at Thursday's session. Afterward, Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., senior Allied delegate, told newsmen:

"I doubt if I've ever heard any people in my life who can say the same thing using the same falsehoods and same silly slanders as these Communists. After awhile it becomes very laughable as well as very boring."

While Harrison has dismissed the Red threats of military blows as propaganda, official Washington was taking them with deadly seriousness. Washington speculated that Moscow might now see no advantage in a Korean truce with new tensions building up in Europe.

THE BIVOUAC OF THE DEAD

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat
The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on Life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few.

And Glory guards, with solemn round,

Allied Troops Raid Red POW Compound, Take Knives, Flags

By JIM BECKER
KOJE ISLAND, Korea, Friday, May 30 (AP)—About 100 Allied troops Thursday raided an unruly compound containing 3,350 tough Red prisoners, destroyed their headquarters, and emerged with Red flags and knives without spilling a drop of blood.

It was the first big show of force inside any of the 17 compounds since disorders flared early in May on this South Korean island where 80,000 prisoners of war are held.

Two hours later, a U. S. soldier guard taking his position in a tower accidentally discharged his automatic rifle into the seething compound, killing one prisoner and wounding another.

The trouble began when guards spotted Red prisoners trying to spot a hole through an inner barbed wire fence that bars the way to an areaway leading to the outer gate.

Col. Henry Taylor, Magnolia, Ark., ordered the Reds to repair the hole. When they refused, he summoned 50 battle-seasoned troops from Company E of the 38th Infantry Regiment.

The infantrymen, wearing gas masks and with bayonets fixed to their rifles, then moved in with tear gas, driving the Red prisoners from the fence. Behind this flying wedge, more than 50 British soldiers from the King's Shropshire Light Infantry moved in and began tearing down their command post and a nearby dispensary.

The 2,700 Red officers and 650 enlisted men of the compound stood back, chanting slogans, jeered and sang. One prisoner mounted a rostrum and declared the incident was "a rehearsal for World War III."

The first British wrecking crew was relieved by 65 more British troops who had been taking riot-control training. These troops completed the demolition job. They brought out knives, Red flags, medical supplies, blankets and pictures, most of which had been hidden under the floors of the two shacks.

The British also found maps of Koje Island and "other intelligence material," Taylor reported.

Ex-Communists Say Reds Still In Government

Chambers, Bentley Tell Senate Group Agents Hard To Detect

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Two former Communists, Whittaker Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley, testified today that they think Red agents still are at work within the government, trying to steal vital secrets.

They told the Senate internal security subcommittee they are unable to name names or the departments in which they may be working.

But Chambers said it would be childish to assume there are none. And Miss Bentley, who says she worked with two spy rings here during World War II, said she has been told two groups still are operating busily within the government.

Although she could not identify any members of these groups she said she had been told about, Miss Bentley said it is obvious the Communists have no interest in lowly clerks or typists who can't get into secret files.

Chambers and Miss Bentley were part of an unusual panel discussion group that included Adm. R. H.

Alben Barkley Now Candidate For Presidency

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Vice President Alben W. Barkley, veteran of 39 years in Congress and renowned stump speaker, today became the sixth avowed candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He issued a brief statement that he would accept the nomination if tendered.

The 74-year-old Kentuckian thus said what he had been on the verge of saying ever since President Truman took himself out of the running March 29.

Barkley's entry scrambled the race for the top prize in his party into a bigger omelet than ever. He also made it difficult for the President to pick a pre-convention favorite if he desires to do so since several of his close friends are now avowed or strongly potential candidates.

The announcement in effect put the administration war horse in competition with these announced candidates:

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut and W. Averell Harriman, mutual security director. Truman is fond of both Barkley and Harriman, as well as Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, who has said many times he is not a candidate but who is still counted on by some party leaders as available.

CYCLISTS IGNORE RED BARRIER—Bicycle-riding residents of West Berlin ignore the new cold war threat as they ride under a newly erected road blockade in the French sector of Berlin. The blockade followed West Germany's signing of a separate peace treaty with the Allies. Russia initiated the retaliatory moves to isolate Berlin from the Western Allies.

Red Artillery Continues Heavy

Korean Front Raked For 2nd Straight Day

SEOUL, Friday, May 30 (AP)—Furious Red artillery fire Thursday for the second straight day raked the Korean front, where powerful Communist forces of troops and tanks are in position to strike.

For a time the rate of fire in the mountainous East even exceeded that of Wednesday, when the Communists hurled a record 7,123 rounds into Allied positions along the twisting, 153-mile front.

The heavy shelling blistered the strategic Punch Bowl area, where two enemy platoons were thrown back early Thursday.

A U. S. Eighth Army tactical summary said the Communist artillery then opened up, and sent over 1,400 rounds of artillery shells in a period of about an hour and a half.

A short but vicious artillery duel broke out on the Western Front northwest of Chorwon.

An Allied patrol intercepted about 300 Chinese Communist troops moving up for an attack and stopped them cold in an action beginning shortly before midnight Wednesday.

The Red raiders called for artillery support, flares were dropped by both sides, and the big guns opened up. After a four-hour fight, the Chinese withdrew leaving 54 killed or wounded.

$3 Toll Estimated For Ohio Turnpike

COLUMBUS, O., May 29 (AP)—An engineering report released today estimates private autos will have to pay $3 to travel the full length of Ohio's proposed turnpike.

That's about 1.2 cents per mile for all 241 miles of the super highway across Northern Ohio. There's no immediate problem, however, for the turnpike won't be finished until 1955.

Trucks will pay an average of 4.7 cents per mile. The heaviest truck will be charged $21 for the full distance.

The toll estimates set up a rate charge for all types of vehicles from motorcycles to passenger buses. A cyclist must pay $1.50 to go the route.

After final papers are signed, the Ohio Turnpike Commission will agree not to charge less than the tolls released today by the engineering firm. But if more revenue is needed, the commission may increase the tolls.

The report was prepared by Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hall and MacDonald, which surveyed traffic on the turnpike route last fall.

Senate Refuses To Let Wage, Price Controls Die Next Month

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Senate refused today by a vote of 52 to 18 to let all wage and price controls die at the end of next month, and then headed into heated debate on the form which an extension should take.

A final vote is not expected until some time next week on a bill to extend authority for controls from June 30 until next March 1.

President Truman took a hand in the controversy, speaking out in a letter to Vice President Barkley against a proposal to revamp the makeup of the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB), making it an all-public body, and to strip it of authority to recommend settlements of labor disputes.

If Congress approves that plan, Truman said, it will in effect be encouraging strikes and lockouts. The board has been the center of controversy ever since its disputed recommendations for settling the steel dispute. They were favored by the six public and six labor members over the objections of the six industry members.

Truman defended this three-part makeup, and said that if Congress decides that the board shall be made up of all public members, "it will in effect be declaring its lack of confidence in the integrity and public-spiritedness of both labor and management."

The first test on the controls extension, on which floor debate started today, was on an amendment by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) which would have allowed all wage-price controls to lapse when the present law expires, June 30.

Only 16 Republicans and two Democrats—Sen. Ellender (La.) and Sen. Gillette (Ia.)—voted for Dirksen's proposal. Against it, and thus presumably in favor of some sort of extension, were 40 Democrats and 12 Republicans.

Rhee said he declared martial law because Red guerrillas were threatening the area. Five U. S. soldiers were killed by guerrillas May 23.

Rhee told his news conference the Assembly "has almost dissolved itself, and that the people would back him if he dissolved it. The Assembly, strongly anti-Rhee, must select a new President of Korea by June 23.

"The people demand that Congress close so that Congress cannot select a President against the will of the people," Rhee said.

Rhee has insisted the Assembly act on his proposed constitutional amendment to elect the President by vote of the people.

300 Germans From Russian Zone Arrested

25,000 Strong-Arm Men Said Ordered Into Allied Areas

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, May 29 (AP)—Fifteen-thousand Communists, surging in from the Russian zone for an anti-Western demonstration, touched off a savage clash with West Berlin police tonight in a growing war of nerves.

Club-swinging police wounded hundreds of the invaders, arrested 300 and broke up the demonstration after an hour of milling in the downtown borough of Kreuzberg, in the American sector.

Tear gas squads were ready, but were never needed. There was no gunfire.

Denounce Treaty
The riot was set off by a group of a thousand brawny Communists distributing leaflets denouncing West Germany's newly signed peace contract with the Allies and calling for German unity, Soviet style.

After a series of short but sharp brawls with highly trained West Berlin police platoons, the rowdies were shoved into side streets and dispersed. Most of the other demonstrators, teen-age youths, kept out of the fight.

Reports that 25,000 strong-arm men had been ordered into other areas in the United States, British and French sectors kept police on the alert, but proved unfounded.

The rioting was timed with a visit of British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who told West Berlin's Parliament and people to stand firm. He declared the Red pressures were "passing phases" and forecast eventual German unity in peace with this city as the capital.

"Threats Won't Work"

"The security and welfare of Berlin and our position here are essential parts of world peace," Eden said. "We shall not be influenced by threats. Threats are the stock in trade of those who lack confidence. Calm is the weapon of those who seek peace."

In the West German capital of Bonn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government stamped hard on rumors that West Berlin and its 2,200,000 people would be given up to the Russians without a fight. Declaring the rumors were "circulated for political purposes to cause unrest," the government said in a statement—they are totally without foundation.

The Communist government of the Soviet zone meantime tightened a few screws in its avowed campaign to make West Germans pay for joining the Allies.

Underwater Oil Lands Bill Vetoes

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—President Truman today vetoed legislation to give the states title to oil-rich lands beyond their coasts.

The President, in a message to the Senate, said the bill would turn over to certain states as a free gift "very valuable lands and mineral resources of the United States as a whole—that is, of all the people of the country."

His action dumps the long-lasting states-versus-federal government issue back into the hands of Congress, where a two-thirds majority vote in both houses would be required to make the legislation law over the veto.

Changing Patterns Of Life Challenge Rest, Work Ideas

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Changing patterns of American life are challenging old ideas about hours of work — and days of rest.

"Open your store on Sunday afternoons, if you want to sell big ticket items like furniture and appliances," one manufacturer urges merchants today. "You can't sell those things during workers' lunch hours."

"Keep stores open at night to catch the growing number of husband-and-wife customer teams," many retailers around the country advise.

"Money is moving west," many in the stock and bond brokerage business say. "Keep the exchanges open later in the day to get in step with the later time zones there." And the New York Curb Exchange, and exchanges in Chicago and Detroit are going to try it — starting Monday.

Changing customs, as well as population shifts, are behind these moves. With more wives working these days, the traditional store hours are not as convenient for families as they once were.

The marked shift to the suburbs, with all the problems of commuter travel, also changes the time schedule for many shoppers.

Incomes are shifting, too. The younger age groups are showing greater percentage gain in income than are the older age groups. Greater percentage gains also show up in the lower income brackets than in the higher.

It is in these groups — the younger and the lower income brackets — where both husbands and wives are most likely to be working. And these groups — with the most new money in their pockets — are most likely to patronize stores that stay open nights.

The executive who predicts an upswing in weekend and holiday openings is William A. Blees, vice president of Afro Mfg. Corp. Since his other job is general sales manager of Crosley, he's interested in luring more customers for cars, radios, refrigerators and television sets.

Food Demands Place Strain On U. S. Farms

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—America's healthy appetite for meat, milk and poultry products will be only partly satisfied, the Agriculture Department says, if the nation doesn't get more farmers.

Food demands are growing by leaps and bounds, but the number of workers on farms is going down.

The department is urging Congress to allow 300,000 special immigrants — mostly experienced farm workers in Europe — to enter during the next three years.

The department says livestock farming — particularly dairying — is having an especially difficult time getting capable and experienced workers to take over tasks being left by Americans going into the armed services and into better-paying industrial jobs.

Official surveys indicate Western Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Greece and several other European countries, have many excellent, experienced farm workers who cannot find productive employment on the limited land resources of their countries and who would like to come to this country.

Despite rapid gains in the U. S. population in the past decade, the farm population has declined substantially. The latter is now about 6.5 million under 1940 and prospects are for a continuing decline with the high levels of economic activity that seem likely for the years immediately ahead.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan says the U. S. needs the European farmers and could use them without adverse effect on employment conditions in this country. He says that, contrary to claims of some opponents of larger immigration quotas, he doesn't believe these would result in lower wages or in displacement of Americans. "If proper care is exercised in the selection and placement of those to be admitted, there is reason to believe," he says, "that an important contribution can be made to our agricultural economy."

The secretary says American farmers are prepared to pay wages prevailing in their communities for qualified workers.

the shut down which will affect 800 persons. He said that by May 31 it would be 90 per cent shut and would remain that way through June for inventory taking.

an impressive record

ALTHOUGH TUBERCULOSIS is one of the oldest known diseases, its cause was first conclusively proved when Robert Koch isolated the tubercle bacillus a little over fifty years ago. The success resulting from vigorous public health measures, particularly in the last quarter century, is impressive. At the beginning of the century, tuberculosis led the list of diseases as the most frequent cause of death. Today it has dropped to seventh place. There is no reason why it should not drop completely from the list of important causes of death.

This splendid record has resulted from the combined efforts of many agencies. An enlightened public opinion with respect to the value of the physician's services has contributed immeasurably. Have that long-delayed physical examination today. We are prescription specialists.

1% Farm Price Rise Reported

Sharp Upturn In Hog Costs Chief Cause

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that farm prices rose one per cent between mid-April and mid-May.

A sharp upturn in prices of hogs was primarily responsible. Prices for cattle, calves, wool, corn, soybeans, most fruits, potatoes and cabbage also increased.

On the other hand, some farm commodities declined, principally dairy products, poultry, eggs, cotton, hay, wheat, oats, barley, sheep, lambs, tomatoes and onions.

Farm prices were about 3.3 per cent below levels of a year ago and nearly seven per cent below the record reached in February of 1951.

Prices paid by farmers for commodities used in production and in family living were unchanged during the month, remaining at a record level reached a month ago.

Farm prices as a whole in mid-May were 101 percent of parity compared with 100 per cent a month earlier, 108 per cent a year ago, and a record of 122 per cent set in October, 1946.

Russell Steps Up Presidency Drive

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—Richard B. Russell of Georgia stepped up his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination today by naming Sen. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado as his campaign manager.

The appointment of the Rocky Mountain State senator underscored Russell's bid for nationwide support. Political bigwigs generally recognize Russell's strength in the South, but some Democrats have regarded him largely as a sectional candidate.

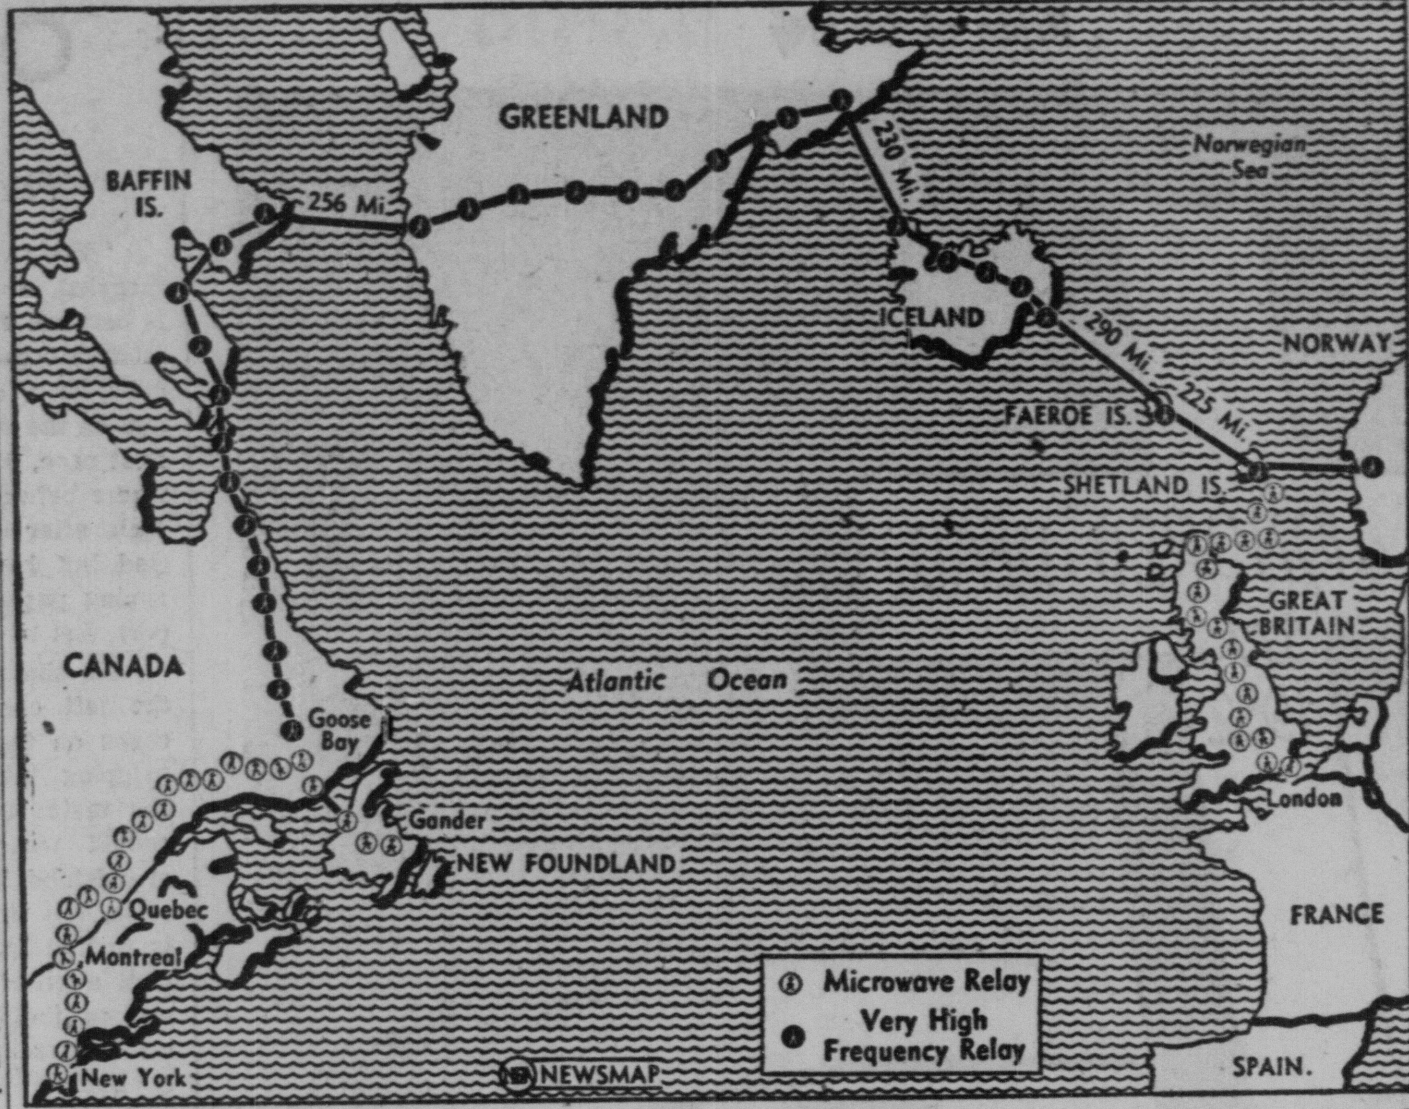

The move was also seen as a bid by Russell for support in the farm states.

Russell said that starting in June he plans to "get out among the people" and carry his candidacy to the nation.

At a joint news conference with Russell, Johnson issued a statement hailing the Georgia legislator as "one of the ablest and greatest Democratic leaders in the history of the Senate," and declaring:

"He is, without question, the best qualified of any candidate of any party, or any potential candidate of any party, for the presidency."

Queen Elizabeth Warned Against Overworking

LONDON, May 29 (AP)—A British medical magazine warned Queen Elizabeth II today to guard against the overwork blamed by many for the early death of her father, King George VI.

The magazine Lancet said the medical profession has become more and more aware of the physical price paid by royalty through the strain of ceremonial engagements.

"To anyone who performs them as well as the Queen, her functions must have their enjoyable side, and all have observed with pleasure her natural aptitude for her vocation," it said. "Her personality, indeed, is such that every public appearance must strengthen the bonds between throne and people."

"But, during the next few years at least, her advisers would do well to resist all calls for her official presence except on really great occasions."

All These Honored Dead

Time has taken all but a few stragglers who marched in the war between the states. But the parade which is always going to end when the latest war ends is continuing.

On this Memorial Day in 1952 there is a thought in the minds of Americans as they honor the men who have served the nation with the last full measure of devotion—that the procession of those called on to sacrifice life for America may never end.

It never has been so clearly evident as it is now that compatibility among nations whose leaders have varying and conflicting ambitions is a distant hope; that the present order of things calls for measures made necessary by the absence of compatibility.

Tens of thousands have died and more than that have suffered the agonies of mutilation in a confused and apparently futile war in Korea—a war which no one can win but which the United States and its Allies dare not lose.

Hundreds of thousands of men who thought the end of World War II meant the end of military mobilization are in uniform.

The toll of war dead from the Civil War to the present is approximately one million, counting those who died from disease. There are no words to express the nation's debt to them, only halting and inadequate words spoken by the living from generation to generation in commemoration of their sacrifice.

A Beginning

As Gen. Eisenhower turns over his responsibilities in Europe to Gen. Ridgway, there is occasion to tot up the score on what he calls "only a beginning" of security in the North Atlantic community.

The occasion is outside the partisan politics in which Gen. Eisenhower has decided to play a part. It resembles in that respect what happened when Gen. MacArthur returned home from Japan. Though the circumstances of MacArthur's homecoming were bound up in political partisanship, that did not detract from his countrymen's appreciation of what he had done in the Far East.

Gen. Eisenhower would be the first to point out that he is not personally responsible for the things accomplished under his command of Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe—SHAPE. But the list speaks for itself.

There are 17 Allied divisions in Europe. The United States has six combat-ready divisions supported by service troops. Britain has four, France five, Belgium two.

Turkey has 12 divisions ready for service in the Near East. Greece has 10 divisions in preparation. Italy has four infantry divisions and three brigades. Canada has an armored brigade in Germany.

The new contracts signed with Germany are to bring 12 German divisions to Europe's defense. In all probability, a crisis would bring Spain and Yugoslavia to the aid of Europe, though neither is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

This does not constitute a formidable force relative to the Soviet Union's 22 divisions in East Germany, plus an estimated 153 Russian divisions and 60 satellite divisions in reserve. That is why Gen. Eisenhower spoke of it in his report last April as "only a beginning." But a beginning has been made, which is more than could be said when Eisenhower went to Europe early in January, 1951.

Point of Contact

No demonstration was needed to prove that Russian-dominated forces in East Germany could make things even rougher than usual for the Allied forces of West Germany if those forces were expanded to include West Germans.

The cutting of telephone and telegraph communications immediately following announcement of the new contracts between the Allied Big Three and West Germany was therefore a kind of anti-climax. The demonstration probably will be carried to more violent displays of bad feeling.

It is the policy of the Russian government and its functionaries in the satellite states to maintain friction at every point of contact with governments opposed to the Communist conspiracy. That has been done throughout Europe. It has been done with great success in the truce negotiations in Korea. It has been carried on relentlessly in the United Nations.

It produced the costly retaliation which became famous as the Berlin air lift. It has produced the North Atlantic Pact, and it has caused the United States to rearm itself and to aid in the rearmament of other nations.

It may precipitate war eventually—a decision which lies with the friction experts in the Kremlin. But that is probably not its aim.

The aim seems more likely to be the impoverishment of the populations which have reacted from Russian provocation in the only way it is safe to react—by preparing for the war which the Kremlin might start to start if it detects an overt sign of weakness.

British View

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Show Quiet Interest In U. S. Politics

What do Britons think about the American election campaign? They have disciplined themselves theoretically to take no sides and to avoid any public expression on the part of the government or the press which could in any way be construed as intervening in American internal affairs.

But this surface restraint does not by any means hide the basic attitude which most Britons feel toward the American presidential campaign.

Primarily, the British don't know the first thing about the reasons why Taft has such a formidable support in the United States. They do know General Eisenhower's personality, and like him. They presume he's going to be a friend of theirs if he's elected President, and that Mr. Taft is going to be hostile.

These generalizations are the result of a lack of knowledge of American politics. Instead of studying the reasons why the Taft campaign has mobilized such a strong following, particularly on foreign-policy questions, the European mind brushes it all off as just "isolationism." The truth is Europeans know very little about General Eisenhower's point of view either, on foreign-policy questions, because he has never expressed publicly any comments other than those required to do his job over here.

THERE IS, to be sure, a great admiration for Eisenhower, the general, born of wartime experience with his leadership and a belief that he will at least treat Europe fairly even though public sentiment in the United States may favor less and less economic aid to Europe as the years go on. The "London Evening News," on the occasion of General Eisenhower's recent visit to Britain, said of him:

"Just seven years ago out streets—after so many grim years of battering and black-out—were lit once again and filled with vast, rejoicing crowds celebrating V-E Day."

"V-E Day was the victory of all of us, great and humble, as Mr. Churchill said in his unforgettable speech to the throng at Whitehall; but in a special sense, of course, it was Ike's victory. As supreme commander of all the Allied forces in the great and glorious venture of liberation and the defeat of the Nazis, he had borne a lonely and tremendous responsibility. The moment of complete triumph was his moment; and with us, alongside us, here in London where the campaign had been planned and whence it was launched he had shared a long, stern ordeal.

"These memories are not idle or insignificant. They mean that here in London we always think of Ike as a friend and good companion—one of us—and whatever may be his fortune in the new setting to which he goes he is sure of British affection, gratitude and trust."

SIMILAR editorial expressions indicate that General Eisenhower is held in high esteem but, if one may be permitted a prediction in the event that he is elected President, the same British press may be disillusioned.

General Eisenhower, faced by a growing American sentiment in favor of an independent policy in foreign affairs, must necessarily take note of that sentiment if an era of self-reliance is to be established among the nations allied with us.

The view that is held here about Senator Taft and General MacArthur is based on a steady campaign of distortion. One would think from hearing comments here that the Americans are a bellicose people intent on large-scale war at the slightest provocation.

One is inclined to think that Senator Taft's public expressions of support for Britain and his votes for sending troops to Europe have never been emphasized here. Many a Briton seems surprised to learn that, despite Senator Taft's criticisms of the extent of economic aid and his efforts to modify some of the commitments of the military side he has held firmly to the view in his speeches that an attack by Soviet Russia on the North Atlantic Treaty members would be an attack on the United States.

It is apparent that the British, along with other Europeans, are going to take a deep interest in the campaign, despite the official attitude of avoiding any acts or statements that could be deemed intervention or the interposition of a European desire for a friendly administration to succeed the Truman regime.

Men Are No Good

By TRUMAN TWILL

Aviation experts are watching accident reports closely for signs that pilot failure is causing the great majority of mishaps. The signs all point to the same conclusion: That the modern flying machine is more than modern men can handle safely.

"This does not mean the pilots are at fault. They are the best obtainable but still are not a match for the machines they must handle. Their blood vessels burst when they are called on to defy the law of gravity. They faint and grow woozy when the blood leaves their brains."

Even when operating the most prosaic of flying machines, their mental reaction time sometimes is too slow to deal with emergencies which demand that they be five men at once, all five with infallible judgment. It's a tough problem for the aviation industry.

But it isn't as if the aviation industry lacked company. There are some other machines which have grown too complex for a modern man to handle safely. The automobile, for instance. Also the hot-nanny which explodes atom bombs.

It requires no further proof that human beings are not up to the responsibility of zooming over the surface of the earth in a two-ton juggernaut capable of going upward of 100 miles an hour. It remains to be seen whether or not they will do even greater damage with the mechanism that makes it possible for them to release the force of atoms, but present signs are not reassuring.

As far as that's concerned, they never showed any signs of knowing how to handle ordinary gunpowder. Even a little old firecracker, which was relatively harmless, was too much for modern man.

There will have to be a commission on human capacity some day to keep these things from getting out of hand. It will have a subcommittee in charge of improving the breed, to keep pace with mechanical progress.

The subcommittee will be doing well if it has made enough progress after its first century of existence to justify the release of the wheelbarrow as a modern vehicle. In a few hundred more years, it may be able to permit the use of horses and buggies.

But right off the bat it will have to call back some of the gadgets which were released prematurely—such things as the internal combustion engine, the philosophy of Hegel, the easy-payment plan, bureaucracy and bottle openers.

This will take some doing; the commission will run into resistance. But the logic of its position will be so clear that reason ultimately will win out over gadget and the world will return to an easy-going pedestrian existence, blissful in its ignorance and raising enough potatoes to go around, no more and no less.

Senate Joint Resolution 130

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Senator John W. Bricker and a number of other senators, both Democrats and Republicans, have introduced Senate Joint Resolution 130, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States which is fundamental to our liberties.

George E. Sokolsky

This resolution to be effective must be passed by two-thirds of both houses of Congress and by three-fourths of the states. When it is realized how speedily the 18th Amendment abolishing prohibition was passed, it is surprising that this proposed amendment should be relatively ignored.

For, unless some measures are taken, the United Nations could become a legislative body for the American people. According to at least one decision of our courts, the Charter of the United Nations being a treaty and therefore the law of the land, actions taken under that treaty are binding upon us. The Bricker resolution is designed to correct this loophole in our constitutional system.

THE FIRST three sections deal with problems arising out of the existence of the United Nations and the authority which our own Constitution gives to United Nations resolutions:

"Section 1. No treaty or executive agreement shall be made respecting the rights of citizens of the United States protected by this Constitution, or abridging or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

"Sec. 2. No treaty or executive agreement shall vest in any international organization or in any foreign power any of the legislative, executive or judicial powers vested by this Constitution in the Congress, the President, or in the courts of the United States, respectively."

"Sec. 3. No treaty or executive agreement shall alter or abridge the laws of the United States or the Constitution or laws of the several states, unless, and then only to the extent that, Congress shall so provide by act or joint resolution."

Should this amendment to the Constitution be adopted, each measure of the United Nations affecting the American people would have to be passed, to be effective, by the Congress of the United States.

For instance, the United Nations is now considering a resolution which Americans regard as a limitation upon the freedom of the press. Should such a resolution be passed, as matters now stand, our courts might hold that it is good law, having been agreed upon within the terms of the charter of the United Nations, which is a treaty and therefore the law of the land.

UNDER THE Bricker Amendment, such an United Nations resolution would not affect Americans unless passed by Congress. And an act of Congress cannot contravene the Constitution, as this one obviously would.

The second phase of this resolution is of equal importance. Steps are constantly being taken by the President and the State Department which, were they treaties, would, under the Constitution, have to be ratified by the Senate before they can be binding upon the United States. At Tehran and Yalta, for instance, actions were taken by "executive agreement" which affected our whole history. We are now at war in Korea because of Tehran and Yalta.

To discontinue this evasion of the Constitution, the Bricker Amendment provides:

"Sec. 4. Executive agreements shall not be made in lieu of treaties."

"Executive agreements shall, if not sooner terminated, expire automatically one year after the end of the term of office for which the President making the agreement shall have been elected, but the Congress may, at the request of any President, extend for the duration of the term of such President the life of any such agreement made or extended during the next presidential term."

"The President shall publish all executive agreements except that those which in his judgment require secrecy shall be submitted to appropriate committees of the Congress in lieu of publication."

THE PROVISIONS place limitations upon the President and the State Department. In effect, they force upon the President disclosure of arrangements he may have made in lieu of treaties. For instance, to this day, we still are not altogether cognizant of what Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin agreed to at Tehran and Yalta, although the effects of their decisions there are becoming altogether too clear for our happiness as a people.

Under the Bricker Amendment, even if secrecy were required, an appropriate committee of Congress would be empowered to know the truth—not only the chairman of the committee, who might be a partisan, but the entire committee, including the minority.

Chambers' Book

By RAYMOND MOLEY

The reviews of Whittaker Chambers' book, "Witness," seem to be nearly unanimous in saying that it is a massive, frightening, and perhaps great piece of literature. It is also a very important page in American history.

When the Chambers story was running in the Saturday Evening Post I discussed in this column what seemed to me the present political significance of the book.

Now, however, an additional point, touched upon by some perceptive reviewers, needs to be stressed. It is Chambers' oversimplification of the difference between Communism and the prevailing way of life of the Western free nations. This oversimplification is made more emphatic by Chambers' emotional approach to great political problems.

He does not make clear what political faith he has retreated to, but he says it is the way of God. Communism, he says, is the way of man exalted to the stature of God. All through the book there are allusions to this black-or-white choice, but he brings it out most early in his introductory, "Letter to My Children" in this way:

"The Communist vision is the vision of Man without God. 'It is the vision of man's mind displacing God as the creative intelligence of the world. It is the vision of man's liberated mind, by the sole force of its rational intelligence, redirecting man's destiny and reorganizing man's life and the world. It is the vision of man, once more the central figure of the Creation, not because God made man in His image, but because man's mind makes him the most intelligent of the animals. . . . hence the Communist Party is quite justified in calling itself the most revolutionary party in history. It has posed in practical form the most revolutionary question in history: God or Man?'"

The alternative to which Chambers retreated when he risked death to break with the Communist Party is thus stated:

"One thing most ex-Communists could agree upon: they broke because they wanted to be free. They do not all mean the same thing by 'free.' Freedom is a need of the soul, and nothing else."

"It is in striving toward God that the soul strikes continually after a condition of freedom. God alone is the inciter and guarantor of freedom. . . . A Communist breaks because he must choose at last between irreconcilable oppos-

Facts About Race Fans

"The average attendant at a race track is married, goes to the races once a year and is between 26 and 57 years of age," says a legislative committee report on horse racing. This calls for a correction. He is 26 to 57 years of age on the way to the track, 18 to 30 before the first race, 35 to 64 after the second and somewhere between 80 and 100 as he makes for the train after the final heat. He is not only married but has three newstands, at least one racing paper and the pencil industry to support. Let us pursue the matter.

He shaves hastily, always missing most of the left cheek, needs a neck-trim and has corns on the inside of the right thumb from gripping the pencil. He has runover heels. His tastes in what the well-dressed racegoer should wear are erratic. In and under the grandstand he is somewhat restrained in his style, but in the clubhouse anything goes. He is furtive in the extreme and often goes behind a pillar to talk to himself. He has mustard on the left sleeve, printing ink stains on his fingers and a limp from stepping on empty bottles. He carries two newspapers, one racing sheet and clippings from four sports pages. He always finds he has lost the clipping he intended on to win the fourth race. He seldom throws anything away. This results in some confusion due to the fact he digs into his pocket on Wednesday and comes up with Monday's clippings. (He doesn't discover this error until Thursday.)

He buys at least two tout cards, swearing by them on one day but swearing OFF them the next. On one or two days he decides to buy none. He develops acute melancholia at the close of the day when he finds this was the one time all the cards had winners at big prices. He weighs 158 pounds in his bare feet, a condition to which he is not unaccustomed. This is without his pockets full of useless mutual tickets, slugs, notes, buttons and an occasional hardboiled egg wrapped in tissue. During stretch runs he wears his uppers in his lower jaw. He is supremely interested in what anybody named "Max," "Loolee," "Steve," "Fitz," "Monroe," "Joe-Joe" or "Mannie" said. He often smokes his pencil and makes notes with a lighted cigarette. He is friendly on the way to the track but limits his words on the way home to "I got switched." "You could see the boy pull the horse" and "This is killing racing."

He is loudly critical of government waste, thinks there is too much crazy spending and says it is up to the people to show more thrift. To a suggestion there is something in the Spartan virtues, he answers, "I played the bum the last time out. He ain't ready."

Misaddressed Mail Anathema To Salem Postoffice Workers

Before you drop your letters in to the box at the postoffice be sure that they are properly addressed and include your return address. This will assure you prompt delivery and will also help the postal workers.

The Salem Postoffice averages 25 to 30 misaddressed letters a week, besides a few letters and postcards without any address. Postmaster Lawrence D. Beardmore says. These are held here for a week and then turned over to the district dead letter office at Cleveland.

When a clerk comes to a piece of mail and can't make out the address or finds it misaddressed he places it in a pigeon hole marked "nixies." The word nix means that the address is too much for him and that he can make nix or nothing out of it.

IN PAST YEARS the postoffice had time to give directory service to illegible and incorrectly-addressed mail, but this service has been discontinued. However, the men make every effort to get the mail to the addressee when possible.

In the final checkup process, every "dead letter" is passed on by Postmaster Beardmore before being sent to the district office. Consulting with him are Ray Reasbeck, superintendent of mails, and Ray Reich, assistant postmaster. One of the biggest headaches of the men who handle the mail here are the misaddressed Christmas greeting cards which come in during the holidays. Hundreds of these are boxed after the yule season and sent to the dead letter office.

While foreign mail is sometimes difficult to decipher, it does not give the local men much trouble. Recently a letter came from an European country addressed to Salem, Ohio Pennsylvania. It too, was included with the "nixies." Twenty-three Salems in the United States and a Solon in Cuyahoga County cause a lot of confusion for the workers, but their chief combat is with careless addresses.

THE "NIXIES" GO to an expert in the division office who does nothing but handle such mail. They are carefully examined for name and address. If the sender's name is found on the inside it is returned to him, with five cents postage due. If not, the letters are destroyed.

The dead letter office of the postoffice department was organized in 1825. It was a part of the responsibility of the first assistant postmaster general of the United States.

Before 1917 all dead letter material was sent to the main postoffice at Washington, D.C. Now the dead letter office consists of 289 branches. The dead letter receipts amount annually to millions of pieces of first class mail. Unclaimed money from this source runs into thousands of dollars each year. It goes to the postoffice fund.

The Salem office finds few misaddressed parcel post packages. There are 15 dead parcel post branches in the country. Articles from these are sold at auction. Besides these, thousands of loose articles are found in the mails every year.

Sen. Taft Claims Voter Support

Senator Says GOP Is Split In Two Factions

COLUMBUS, O., May 29 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft declared today that he is the strongest candidate for President the Republicans can nominate.

He said Republicans are split in two major factions, favorable to himself and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. But his faction, Taft said, can put on the kind of all-out drive to win the presidency in the November election.

Taft spoke at a meeting here of Ohio delegates to the GOP National Convention opening July 7 in Chicago. Sen. John W. Bricker of Columbus, nominee for reelection, was named chairman of the 56-member convention delegation. All are pledged to Taft.

Delegates elected in the May 6 primary also retained Congressman Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester as national committee man and Mrs. Katherine Kennedy Brown of Dayton as national committeewoman.

Taft returned to Washington by plane after addressing the meeting. He described Eisenhower backers in Congress as spenders. He said they voted against economy measures and supported President Truman's policies.

He also asserted that Gov. Thomas A. Dewey of New York, twice a GOP presidential nominee, and Herbert Brownell, Dewey's campaign manager, are running the Eisenhower presidential drive.

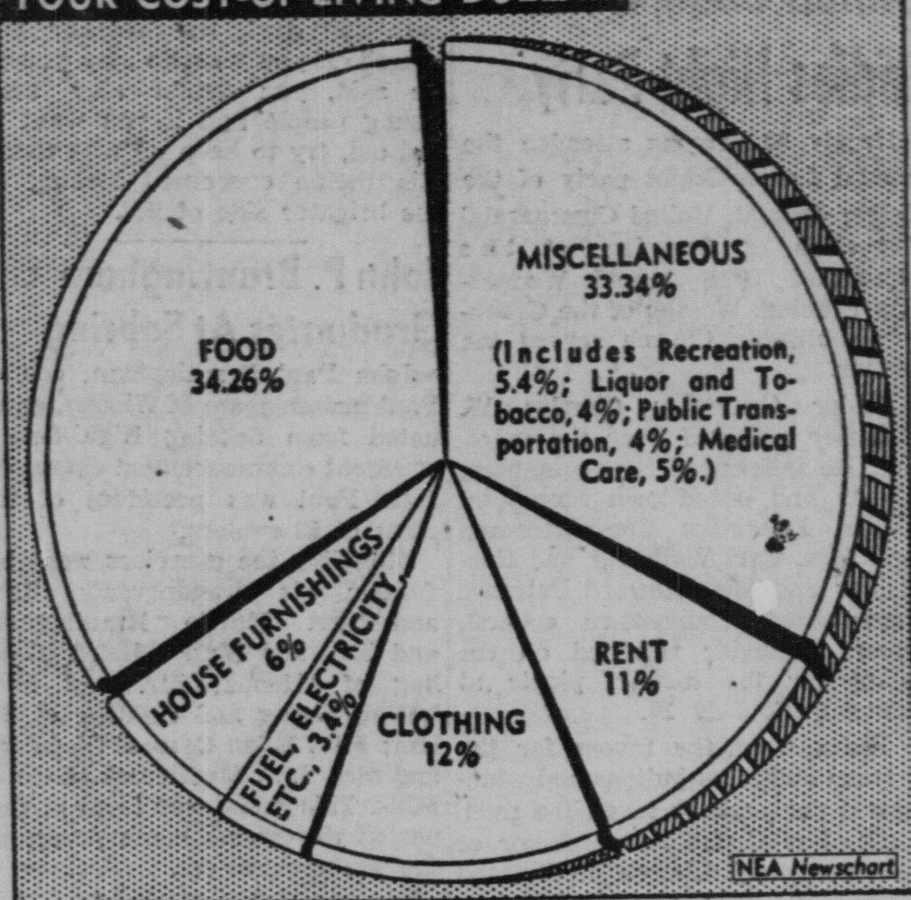

Taft said he would have close to the 604 votes needed for nomination by convention time. He estimated he has more than 500 now. Taft said 40 to 50 per cent of California's delegates pledged to Gov. Earl Warren of that state will shift to him on the second ballot in Chicago.

Bricker, Dewey's running mate for vice president in 1944, said it "took real genius to lose the last campaign" for president. In that race Dewey and Warren lost to President Truman and Vice President Alben Barkley of Kentucky.

Ninety-six of the 111 Taft-pledged delegates and alternates attended today's meeting. Elected vice chairmen of the delegation were former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati and Mrs. Elizabeth Linard of Bellaire. Mrs. Florence Morris of Toledo was elected secretary and Congresswoman Frances Bolton of Lyndhurst, Cleveland suburb, was made honorary vice president.

Elected to serve on convention committees were: Representative Brown, credentials; David Ingalls of Cleveland, organization; State

YOUR COST-OF-LIVING DOLLAR

VILLAIN OF THE HCL — Just like in your household budget, the word "Miscellaneous" covers a multitude of sins that keep the cost of living index going up and up, declare Federal economists. They point to "Miscellaneous" (along with food prices) as the villain that, as of April 15, put the Consumer Price Index up 88.7 per cent higher than the 1935-39 average. It's the little-noticed and uncontrolled items like recreation, transportation and medical care, that do the dirty work, say the government economics sharks. Their figures indicate that food and "Miscellaneous" eat up about two-thirds of your cost-of-living dollar, as shown above.

Chairman Ray C. Bliss of Akron, rules and order of business; John Hollister of Cincinnati and Albina Cernak of Cleveland, resolutions committee.

Chennault said U. S. postwar policies hurt the Chinese Nationalists and helped the Chinese Communists.

Communists

Hillenkoetter, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency; Herbert Philbrick, a former FBI undercover agent who joined the Communists, and Hede Massing, another former Communist. Chambers and Miss Bentley agreed it would be difficult to ferret out any Communist now on the federal payroll.

"The better the agent," Chambers said, "the more difficult it is to detect him."

Hillenkoetter added that a good agent has no identity. To make detection harder, Chambers said, "many individuals extremely important to the Communists are not members of the party."

Before the panel discussion began, the subcommittee heard from Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, wartime Air Force commander in China.

Allentown's Game: Park and Shop

Everybody In Pennsylvania Town Wins
As Plan to End Parking Problem Pays Off

AERIAL PHOTO-DIAGRAM of downtown Allentown, Pa., shows parking lots (solid white) in city's "Park & Shop" plan that took the headache out of parking. Business area embraced by the system is enclosed by broken lines, which were also used as pattern for the "Park & Shop" game.

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (NEA)—Out in this eastern Pennsylvania city, they've put the hoop-de-do in a box. Actually, the box is a game called "Park and Shop," but it's really a gay way of popularizing the city's solution to its parking problem.

Park & Shop (the game) is modeled after Park & Shop (the actual parking plan). Both are clever, and both are easy to operate. And behind both is the dynamic, cigar-chewing general manager of Allentown's Call-Chronicle newspapers, Donald P. Miller.

In 1944, Miller began thinking about parking. His city, like most in America, had too many cars for the parking space available. There was danger of business moving out to the suburbs. Out of his research, persuasiveness and eight years of work came a master plan which today makes it cheap and easy to park in the heart of Allentown's business area.

There are three types of parkers, and three types of parking facilities, in Allentown. For the all-day parker, the Allentown Parking Authority runs lots on the fringe of the shopping district, but still within easy walking distance. These are metered, and it costs 25 cents a day—or $5 a month or $50 a year—to keep your car there.

FOR THE SHORT-STOPPER

the streets are metered. But there is an intermediate group, and a large one, that is virtually ignored in many cities. That's the motorist who plans to spend a few hours downtown on a variety of shopping and business errands.

These people are considered in Miller's Park & Shop plan. The city's merchants banded together, bought land in the center of the city, and began operating privately owned Park & Shop lots. As their ads say, it's as easy as one-two-three.

You pull into a Park & Shop lot, one of 10 in the business area. They're easily identified by big blue signs. You give the operator—who leases the lot from Park & Shop, Inc.—a quarter, and he gives you a ticket. Your fee entitles you to park for two hours.

Secondly, you go shopping. In any of the Park & Shop member stores—and the 72 stores represent nearly all Allentown merchants—you make your purchase. If it is over one dollar, the merchant stamps your ticket.

WHEN YOU PICK UP your car, you give the lot operator the stamped ticket and he gives you back your quarter. You've parked for free.

Every week, the lot operator sends his stamped tickets in to Park & Shop headquarters, and gets 18 cents for each one. Park & Shop then turns around and charges the merchant who validated the ticket 20 cents. The merchant, in the end, pays for your parking. But he's happy, because now you're shopping in town more often.

The plan, which began operating on a small scale in 1947, is now a big-time operation. Park & Shop, Inc., is a million-dollar corporation. They've built a modern structure at one busy corner with parking space on the roof and stores on the ground level. They're paying dividends on their stock this year. They're busily planning new, bigger lots.

The Park & Shop game is the brainchild of B. Campe Euwer, an artist on the staff of Miller's newspapers. You play on a board which has a colorful diagram of the Allentown shopping district.

THE AIM OF THE GAME is to go shopping and go home. You're dealt cards, which make up your shopping list. You have a little colored card and move from the starting point to a Park & Shop lot. Then you do your shopping (moving a pedestrian figure of matching color), go back to the lot, pick up your car and drive home. The stores correspond almost directly to the real Allentown stores, although they're not named. The lots are located almost exactly where they're located in full-size Allentown. And there are penalty and bonus cards to imitate the unexpected incidents of a real shopping trip.

Although it's been incorporated and is a definite profit-making enterprise, the game has the secondary aim of driving home one message: it's faster to park in a lot and walk to the store. To emphasize this, you only roll one die while you're in your car, but two while you're a pedestrian.

"The game," says Miller, "adds the color and hoop-de-do." On "Park & Shop Day"—the day when the game was introduced—Allentown's schools closed, its merchants ran big sales, and the Park & Shop game was played in store windows up and down Hamilton Street, the main thoroughfare. The city was flooded with shoppers.

But there was plenty of room to park.

one who believed otherwise was persecuted, he said.

He showed how curiosity, invention, commerce and particularly war changed the maps of the world. The most modern land map today is the polar concept, he added.

E. S. Kerr and C. W. Kaminsky were program chairmen.

Farm Tour Planned

Morris Ship Deal Profit Reported

"Questionable" Trade Said Earned $30,000

By WILMOT HERCHER

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—A Senate subcommittee reported today that Newbold Morris, ousted government cleanup chief, earned approximately $30,000 in surplus ship deals which led to "questionable, and in some instances illegal, practices."

The report is the result of a sensational inquiry made by the investigations subcommittee into the purchase of surplus oil tankers from the old U. S. Maritime Commission by Joseph E. Casey and a group of prominent public figures. Casey, a former Democratic member of the House from Massachusetts, is now practicing law in Washington.

The subcommittee said the Justice Department is looking into possible criminal violations, as well as "conspiracy to defraud the government," in connection with the deals involving Morris and Casey.

It demanded that the government seize eight tankers sold to Casey and his associates, and 39 vessels sold to others under similar circumstances.

It also suggested that the Internal Revenue Bureau act to collect millions of dollars in taxes allegedly avoided in the deals. In the case of the Casey group, the subcommittee stated, the recovery might be between $850,000 and $1,400,000.

There is evidence that the Maritime Commission operated with confusion and mismanagement, the committee said, "creating the impression that 'the back door' approach was the best approach to the commission." It demanded that the Justice Department look into this.

During its investigation, the committee reported, it learned that

Morris' New York law firm of Lovejoy, Morris, Wasson and Hupchuk earned about $158,000 in legal fees in connection with the tanker transactions, "and Mr. Morris' gross share of these fees would be approximately $30,000."

Let's Go Swiss For Dinner Eats

Let's go Swiss for dinner. Not only do the Swiss eat well but they make wonderful cheese. This recipe, using their own Swiss cheese, is served hot: Switzerland Cheese Pie—pie crust for 9-inch pie 1/2 pound Swiss cheese grated 1 tablespoon flour 1 cup milk (or cream) 3 eggs, well beaten salt pepper to taste. Line pie dish with pastry. Dredge cheese with flour. Distribute cheese evenly in pie dish. Beat eggs well, mix with milk, season lightly and pour the mixture over the cheese.

Bake 15 minutes in hot oven (400 degrees F.), then reduce heat to slow oven (300-325 degrees F.) and bake an additional 30 minutes or until knife inserted in center of pie comes out clean. Serve hot or warmed over.

Follow baking instructions carefully and do not overbake. Serves 4.

For a good main dish, using leftover or canned chicken, try this reliable and easy recipe. Quick Scalloped Chicken—3 cups cooked, boned chicken

DiMaggio Says He'll Fight To Keep Son

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio said today he would fight any move to take partial custody of his 9-year-old son away from him.

The retired baseball star took time out from his baseball commentary over television to tell newsmen just how he feels about his ex-wife's threat to seek full custody of the boy, Joe Jr.

"Naturally, I want to protect my son," he said. "I love him and, of course, I'll fight for him."

Mrs. DiMaggio, who divorced the former Yankee Clipper in 1944, said in Los Angeles yesterday that she would go to court Monday in an effort to seek full custody.

Indians Scalp Tigers In 11-4 Victory

Simpson Clouts Four-Run Homer

Feller Wins As Rosen Drives Home 4 Runs

DETROIT, May 29 (AP) — Harry Simpson boomed a bases loaded home run and Al Rosen smashed home four more runs with a double and a single as the first-place Cleveland Indians battered four Detroit Tiger pitchers for 13 hits to win 11-4 today.

Bob Feller handed the last-place Tigers four quick runs but settled down and allowed only three hits in the last six innings to win his fifth game against three defeats. Pat Mullin powered a two-run homer off him in the third.

The Tigers had whipped the Indians four straight times but were trailing 7-4 when Relief Pitcher Ken Johnson, making his first appearance of the season, was called into face Simpson with the bases loaded in the eighth inning. With the count 1-1, Simpson drove the ball into the lower right field stands for his third home run.

A crowd of 6,870 saw Rosen, American League runs-batted-in leader with 30, double home Simpson and Bob Avila in the seventh to break a 4-4 tie. Rosen's lazy fly off loser Dick Littlefield fell between three Tigers in short right center field.

The Indians scored once more before Simpson homered, Hal White walking home Jim Fridley with the bases loaded in the eighth.

The Indians scored three times in the fifth inning to tie the score and drive out starter Art Houtteman who pitched a one-hitter against them the last time.

Merrill Combs singled, Feller walked and Simpson punched a single to right field for his first of five RBIs. After Avila's infield out, Rosen drilled a two-run single between short and third.

In the fourth inning Rosen doubled against the right center field wall and Larry Doby scorched a single over second base for the Indians' first run.

The Tigers leaped to a 4-0 lead by scoring twice each in the second and third innings on five hits.

After George Kell singled in the third Mullin powered Feller's first pitch into the upper right field stands for his third homer.

In the second Vic Wertz walked and Cliff Mages singled. Joe Ginsberg shot a one run single into left field and Johnny Lipon drove in Mages with a single over second base.

Feller who has won six games without a defeat from the Tigers since 1950 gave up lone hits in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings but was never in danger then. Altogether the Tigers got nine hits.

Houtteman retired the first nine batters who faced him but Simpson, leading off in the fourth, singled to right field.

Will Thursday Night's Championship Bout Mark The End Of The Road For Walcott?

By FRANK ECK

NEW YORK—Jersey Joe Walcott started the seventh with a left uppercut to Ezzard Charles' jaw. Charles countered with a left and right to the body, forcing Walcott to a neutral corner. Walcott staggered the champion with a left hook to the jaw. Charles drooled and his eyes had that glassy look. He fell forward to his knees and then crumbled flat on his stomach.

As the referee counted, Charles slowly pulled himself up but at the count of 10 Charles fell flat on his back. The time was 55 seconds. Walcott officially became world heavyweight champion.

This was their meeting in Pittsburgh last July. Walcott hasn't fought since. You can hardly blame him for he has been fighting on and off for 22 years or since 1930 when he knocked out a chap called Cowboy Wallace in the first round at Vineland N.J.

Walcott has seen better days, better days fiscally but not financially. He is 38 by Nat Fleischer's Ring record book although he looks much older and the fight mob says he is older.

Walcott and big money were strangers until 1947 when he almost beat Joe Louis in Madison Square Garden, although Louis got the split decision.

WALCOTT THOUGHT he won the title that night. Louis thought he lost. He was cut in several places and one eye was closed.

He started to leave the ring but his handlers pushed him back as if to say "wait for the announcement, funny things have happened in boxing before."

Afterwards, Louis agreed to give Walcott another title chance, hoping to wipe out the stigma of the questionable verdict.

So the following summer they met in Yankee Stadium and Walcott began to clown. He stuck his chin out and Louis hit it, not once but a dozen times and Walcott saw his second title shot end in an 11-round knockout.

Then the next year, 1949, Louis announced his retirement. The world was left without a heavyweight champion and Charles and Walcott met in Chicago for the vacant throne. Charles won the decision.

Less than two years later, March of 1951, they put the show on the road and Charles again won a decision, this time in Detroit.

There was no reason for a third

Charles-Walcott fight other than the fact that Pittsburgh had never seen them. A charity shared in the proceeds and furthermore Charles figured Walcott was an easy touch. He went easy in training they say.

THE PLACE HOLDS 102,000 for the annual Army-Navy football game and can seat many more for a fight, as it did in 1926 when 120,757 paid $1,895,733 for the first Dempsey-Tunney fight.

But this one, even at $20 tops, may not draw 40,000 fans. Promoter Herman Taylor expects something like a $400,000 gate but it may not go that high unless you count $175,000 being paid for television rights.

In New York there is not a great deal of interest except among the big wheels who sit in the first few rows at nearly every heavyweight title bout.

The average New York fight fan say he's getting ready to give the title back to Charles. At 38, he doesn't figure to be the Walcott who almost knocked out Joe Louis. And he doesn't figure to beat Charles again.

Way their 15-round bout on

Weather Favors Racing Classic

Race Only Postponed Once Since Originated

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (AP) — Bad weather, one of three things that could prevent a record-cracking 500-mile auto race Friday, probably will miss the Indianapolis Motor Speedway again.

The forecast is for a warm, partly cloudy Memorial Day. The start is at 11 a. m. Central Daylight Time. There will be a special speedway radio network, no television.

The most important American auto race, the only one that counts in the international standings, it has been postponed only once since it started in 1911.

Rain shortened the 1926 race to 400 miles and the 1950 race to 345 miles.

The other two factors that could slow the race—wrecks and engine failures—may not be so well under control.

Everybody connected with the racing classic has his fingers crossed after four straight years without a fatality in the actual race.

William (Shorty) Canton of Indianapolis died in the 1947 "500."

The last of the track's 42 victims, George Metzler of Indianapolis, was injured fatally practicing for the 1949 race.

Johnny Parsons of Sherman Oaks, Calif., only former winner in the 33-car field, rates among the favorites in his 1950 winning car, the Jim Robbins Special.

Veteran newsmen at the track generally tagged Jack McGrath of Pasadena, Calif., as the man to beat if he keeps out of trouble. He was among last year's leaders, suffered severe leg cramps, and turned over the car to Manuel Ayulo of Burbank, Calif., for a third-place finish behind Lee Wallard and Mike Nazaruk.

Nazaruk of East Meadow, L. I., N. Y., is the first alternate starter. He'll be in the lineup only if one of the 33 faster cars can't get going for the uncounted, paced first lap.

Alberto Ascari of Milan, Italy, is the first foreign driver in the lineup since 1946. He was the 1951 European auto racing champion.

The husky Italian and his husky V-12 Ferrari are genuine contenders, although 24 cars qualified at faster speeds.

The fastest qualifiers were Chet Miller of Glendale, Calif., who set a 10-mile record of 139.034 in a Novi V-8; Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., 138.212 in a fuel injection engineering special; Freddie Agabashian of Albany, Calif., 138.010 in the big new Cummins Diesel Special, and Andy Lindmen of Los Angeles, 137.002 in the Miracle Power Special.

All the starters are four-cylinder cars except the Diesel Six, the Ferrari V-12 and the two Novi V-8's. Duke Nalon of Los Angeles is Miller's Novi teammate and it won't surprise some of the speedway habitués if they're running one-two early in the race.

Speedway Facts
INDIANAPOLIS, May 29 (AP) — Facts and figures on the 36th annual 500-mile Memorial Day auto race:

Scene — The 433-acre Indianapolis Motor Speedway, two and one-half mile brick and asphalt track built in 1909, paved 1910.

Field — Thirty-three specially constructed race cars, screened from 70 entries by time trials. (Qualification average a record 135.504 miles an hour, old record 133.570 last year).

The pole car — Freddie Agabashian, Albany, Calif., and the Cummins Diesel special. Fastest car on the first day of qualifications, May 17, at 138.010.

Fastest car — Chet Miller, Glendale, Calif., in a Novi Pure Oil Special, a record 139.034 in trials May 26.

Purse — about $200,000, depending on the gate.

Crowd — Never disclosed, estimated up to $200,000.

The race record — 126.244 by Lee Wallard and Belanger "99" in 1951.

Starting time — 11 A. M., Central Daylight Time.

Skippin' Around

By SKIP GREENISEN

The Little League, newest baseball organization in Salem, will open its season next Wednesday with two games slated.

The Major League portion of the loop will play its games but the Minor League section will hold off until Saturday before getting underway.

Major League backers are Mullins, National Sanitary, Fisher's News Agency and Sekely Industry. Minor League squads are being backed by the DAV, Salem Concrete, CIO 3816 of the Sanitary and Electric Furnace.

Umpires are needed badly, according to Phillip Stevens, in charge of securing them. The games will be played at 5:30 and 6:30 p.m. and the umpires will be paid. Stevens asks anyone interested in helping the youngsters to contact him at his home. His phone: 8668.

Jimmy Laughlin, slugging first baseman with the Mount Union Purple Raiders, will join the Salem Merchants at the termination of the Mount Union schedule. He hit a lousy .444 for the Raiders.

The Merchants, who presently have won seven games against no defeats, are leading the Columbiana County League. Chet Brautigam's baseballers are idle with the County all-star game being played at East Palestine.

Jim Cosgarea, the Merchants' ace twirler, is slated to start for the all-stars today when they face the Boardman A.C. Cosgarea holds a 3-0 record in county league play.

The Salem city softball leagues are finally rolling into their full schedule after a couple of weeks layoff. Cold weather and rain have forced the postponement of many games. A revised schedule is listed elsewhere on this page.

Manager Ward Zeller hopes for the weather to clear up so that the leagues will be able to play three rounds. The annual playoffs are again slated with the first four teams battling for the charmed circle.

Giant Centerfielder Inducted Into Army
NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—Willie Mays, the New York Giants' centerfielder, was inducted into the Army today.

Mays was sworn into the service for a two-year-period at the Army induction center here and was sent immediately to Camp Kilmer, N. J.

He said manager Leo Durocher had advised him to play ball in the Army if he could to keep in condition for his return to the Giants.

The Lions edged out Joe's 3-2 in a Class B softball game played Thursday at Centennial Park. Stan Strojek, pitching for Joe's, allowed only two hits while his teammates collected six. Most of the runs were scored in the third inning when the Lions garnered two and Joe's got one.

Ohio Golfers Will Try To Better Hogan's Score

CLEVELAND, May 29 (AP) — Ed Graf, regional director, predicted today that some 24,000 Ohioans will take part Saturday in National Golf Day.

The golfers competing at most of the courses in the state will be trying to shoot a better score than Ben Hogan manages in a round at Dallas.

And the duffers have an advantage. Hogan will not get a handicap and they will.

Those who beat him will get a bronze medal testifying to their efforts.

To take part, golfers will pay $1 more than the regular course fees. Of that, 50 cents will go to the USO and the other 50 cents to a national golf fund to promote the sport.

Sponsors of the nationwide contest are the Pro Golfers Association and Life Magazine. They expect about a tenth of those taking part will beat Hogan — counting handicaps, that is.

Giants Threaten In 9th, But Lose

PHILADELPHIA, May 29 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies cut the New York Giants National League lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers to a game and a half today with a 6 to 5 win that almost got away from them in the last inning.

The league leaders threatened in the ninth, scoring twice on singles by Wes Westrum, Dave Williams, Whitely Lockman and Bob Thomson.

Carl Drews, who started for the Phillies, was relieved by Jim Konstanty in the eighth. Konstanty gave way to Andy Hansen in the ninth and Ken Heintzelman finally stopped the New York surge.

The loss was a tough one to take for the Giants because they went into the ninth knowing that the Dodgers had defeated the Boston Braves 7 to 3.

The Box:

Thirty-one of 50 players on the West Virginia University football roster are natives of the state. All except three of the out-of-staters come from within a 100-mile radius of the campus.

Correct Grip and Stance Lead to One-Piece Swing

(Fourth of a Series)
By JACKIE BURKE

If you feel free and unstrained in making a shot, you probably have the correct stance.

As Gene Sarazen points out, if a player masters the correct grip, he will discover that it makes the right stance second nature.

The correct grip and stance lead naturally and easily to a one-piece swing.

Sometimes you can break tension by bending the knees slightly during the address.

Once you have the proper grip and stance, swing the club your own way. Like batters in baseball, every golfer has his own little mannerisms.

As a general rule, tall players should spread their feet far apart.

The tall player can spread his legs because he has a higher center of gravity. A tall player who does not spread his feet is inclined to lose power because his stance causes too much body sway.

ORDINARILY, short players play with their feet closer together. Spreading their legs would cause them to lose foot power and muffle their stroke.

To a certain extent, the length of the arms governs the stance best suited to the player. A short player with short arms often finds he can effectively employ a more wide open stance than an equally short player with long arms. A tall player with short arms probably will feel more at ease in a wider stance than will fit an equally tall player with long arms.

ADDRESS THE BALL with your feet at varying distances apart until you find the stance in which you feel the most relaxed and free from muscular tension.

When you have that feeling, you probably will have found the stance best suited to your particular physical characteristics.

Then you are ready to master the other fundamental of good golf—the swing.

NEXT: The swing.

Yankees Grab 3-2 Victory On Error

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—An eighth-inning error by substitute first baseman Billy Hitchcock enabled the New York Yankees to nip the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-2, today.

Phil Rizzuto scored the winning run from second when Hitchcock permitted Yogi Berra's grounder to seep through him. Hitchcock was playing in place of Ferris Fain, who was sidelined with an injured right wrist.

Hitchcock's boot permitted Vic Raschi to sneak in with his 23rd victory over the Athletics in 25 decisions. Vic allowed seven hits and his luckless opponent, Alex Kellner, permitted eight. One of the Yankee blows was Hank Bauer's solo homer in the first inning, the sixth for the outfielder.

Market Shows Usual Pre-Holiday Quiet

NEW YORK, May 29 (AP)—The stock market today put on a typical pre-holiday performance of light sales and narrow price changes.

Only in rare cases did leading shares vary more than a few cents a share from previous levels.

Recently buoyant railroad issues ran into some profit-taking. Motion pictures were affected by reductions of some dividends by leading companies. Elsewhere price levels presented a mixed pattern.

Loew's touched another new low, after yesterday's 2 1/2-point drop. Paramount Pictures also reached a new low and Twentieth Century-

Fox was another issue receding a bit.

Other backward issues included Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, International Paper, General Motors, Goodyear, Boeing, Anaconda Copper, American Smelting and National Distillers.

International Telephone responded to predictions of a higher dividend rate later this year with a fractional rise.

Improvement also was shown by American Telephone, after an early decline Standard Oil N. J., Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Philip Morris, American Can and Kennecott Copper.

Four Firemen Hurt In Rescuing Seven

CINCINNATI, May 29 (AP)—Seven persons were carried through smoke from fires which swept through three adjoining houses in nearby St. Bernard today, firemen reported.

Four firemen were injured, none seriously.

The fire fighters entered a second-floor room in one of the houses and awakened Fred Wachsmann, Sr., 50, who was in bed. Then they broke down a hall door to remove Mrs. Rosemary Helms, 22, and her eight-month-old daughter, Kathleen, in another apartment.

Mrs. Ruth Zeizer, who lived on the first floor, of one of the houses, carried her daughter, Denise, three, from the building while her son, Daniel, five months old, was rescued by George Neisner, a city service employee.

Mrs. Margaret Wiehe, 80, was assisted from her home.

Fire Chief Charles Fisher said damage to the three houses amounted to approximately $5,000.

Memorial Day

TODAY is the day we have dedicated to the memory and honor of our soldier dead. The wreaths we lay on their graves is a tribute, acknowledging the debt of gratitude we owe to them... the men who, in times of national stress, have borne the perils and brunt of upholding the principles and ideals of this republic.

Let us pay tribute to those whose courage and sacrifices have preserved a united nation and have made it the greatest nation on the face of the earth.
